

ALDIAMA ANTHONY

ALDIAMA ANTHONY is an international student from the Commonwealth of Dominica, currently in her third year of law school at the University at Buffalo School of Law. Her interest in law began during her undergraduate studies at Monroe College, where she had the opportunity of completing her Bachelor of Science degree in Criminal Justice, graduating with summa cum laude honors. Her passion for law was later reinforced when she continued her education at Pace University, obtaining a paralegal certification, where she graduated as the valedictorian of her class. Coming from a small island, she has recognized the great need for diversity in the legal profession and the great need for justice and equality in society.

Ms. Anthony is currently a 2021 Pro Bono Scholar at the University at Buffalo School of Law, the 2020-2021 BLSA president of her law school's chapter, and she is also the Upstate Regional director of the Northeast Region for the Black Law Student Association.

Ms. Anthony is most passionate about merging her love for law and woman empowerment. Her ultimate goal is to be an advocate for black women, paying close respects to the black woman's identity, professionalism, fashion, music, culture, & self-worth within the legal profession. In her spare time, she enjoys traveling the world and blogging her life experiences.
