

Ad'mirel Durden

Ad'mirel Durden is a senior at Washington University in St. Louis studying Sociology with minors in Political Science and Legal Studies on the pre-law track. At WashU, she is a Mellon Mays Undergraduate Fellow, QuestBridge Scholar, and Academic Peer Mentor. Throughout Ad'mirel's undergraduate years, she has interned at the Louisiana Fourth Circuit Court of Appeals with the Honorable Judge Lobrano. During her internships, she pursued research projects on various topics such as Critical Race Theory, the child welfare system, community service boards, and the juvenile justice system.