

Judge Mariam Saad Bazzi has served on the Third Circuit Court since 2017 where she currently serves in the Criminal Division. In addition to her regular duties, she oversees a Mental Health Court docket, she has served on the Court's Executive Committee, and served on the Court's Strategic Planning Team. She is currently the Judicial Sponsor of the Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion Committee for the Court. She also was appointed by the Michigan Supreme Court to serve on the Michigan Continuing Judicial Education Board. She has presented at judicial conferences and seminars both locally and internationally covering topics including felony criminal sentencings, domestic violence, conflict of interest rules for the judiciary, and diversity and inclusion initiatives for the court.

She previously served as an Assistant Wayne County Prosecuting Attorney prior to her appointment to the Bench. During her service at the Wayne County Prosecutor's Office, she prosecuted thousands of criminal cases including violent crimes, drug cases, financial crimes and other complex, and high-profile cases. Prior to leaving that office for the bench, she was the Lead Attorney in charge of the Mortgage and Deed Fraud Task Force in Wayne County.

Judge Bazzi has been active in many community and civic organizations. She currently serves as a Board Member of Leaders Advancing and Helping Communities (LAHC). Prior to her judicial appointment, she was elected to the Dearborn Board of Education and Henry Ford College Board of Trustees where she chaired both boards. She also previously served on Michigan's Middle Eastern Affairs Commission, Michigan's Environmental Justice Work Group, and as the President of the Arab American Political Action Committee.

Judge Bazzi holds a J.D. from Wayne State University Law School and a B.S. in Political Science from the University of Michigan-Dearborn. She is married to Abdul Bazzi and together, they have three children.